CITIZENSHIP TALKS FEATURE CELEBRATION

Columbus Day is Observed With Banquet Under Auspices of Sons of Italy

FRANK RIVA IS TOASTMASTER

Numerous Guests Present—Congressman Crago and Attorney Joseph Bell of Pittsburg Advise Work for Good Government

A bigger, brighter, better America, with the dream of our forefathers realized in a present day progressive spirit of cosmopolitanism making for good government, was the keynote of the first annual banquet held by Charleroi lodge Salvatore Barzilai No. 468, Sons of Italy of America, at Turner Hall Thursday evening. The occasion was to celebrate Columbus day in honor of the famous Italian who discovered America.

The supper was served under direction of Nick Nicholaids a Monessen caterer. It consisted of seasonable dainties, with a distinctly pleasing Italian taste. The hall was decorated with banners and posters in which the red, white and blue of the United States was hamoniously blended with the red, white and green of Italy. One hundred and twenty-three persons sat down to the banquet tables.

Frank Riva of Charleroi was the toastmaster of the evening. After a few remarks he introduced first Joseph Turturiel Bell an Italian attorney of Pittsburg. In masterly English Attorney Bell thrilled his hearers in a lengthy good citizenship talk, to conclude with passing mention of the deeds of some of the greatest Italians of the age and with a eulogy of Christopher Columbus, the greatest of them all. Attorney Bell advised the Italian-Americans at the tables who were not citizens to become citizens of the United States as soon as they could to grow into their own rights and into the complete enjoyment of the privileges of good government. Attorney Bell assailed the so-called Burnett literacy bill in no unmistakable terms. He termed it discriminatory and said it was aimed at possibly four nationalities, including the Italian. He said it would prevent the best classes of aliens from coming into America, and in evidence quoted a few examples of what a few years had accomplished. He named as one a University of Pittsburg language professor who is the son of a man who could not read nor write, and said that with the literacy test America would have been deprived of this able and brilliant citizen.

Col. Thomas Crago, congressman-at-large told the Italians assembled that they would grow into their rights as they became citizens and pronounced the need America had of their spririt, brains and brawn. He paid many a tribute to the Italian people, eulogizing them for their ability in art, music and the professions. Merely touching on the border of politics he said, "I believe the people of this land want a man as leader who demands of other nations the respect

CLASS SCRAPS AT HIGH SCHOOL RESULT IN THE SUSPENSION OF EIGHT

Class scraps that seem as essential to the conduct of the Charleroi high school as to any college in the land have resulted disastrously to somebody at the institution on the hill and high school pupils are trying to figure it out. A party of about eight seniors are out of school by reason of suspension and the balance of the high school is somewhat worried.

The trouble began Wednesday night—nearer correct might be 2 o'clock Thursday morning—somebody cut the rope of the new flag pole at the high school to take down a junior flag, somebody had previously put up. They were found out, it is said, and the suspension followed.

Settlement for those out will be possible through the placing of another rope in proper position on the flag pole Of the pupils not attending school the most are boys, with a few girls included. Considering there has been injustice somewhere some of the number are talking of beginning high school work elsewhere.

MOTORCYCLIST IS HURLED TO DEATH

West Brownsville Man Instantly Killed When he Plunges Into Bank

NEGOTIATING FOR MACHINE

When the motorcycle which he was riding failed to take the sharp curve at the top of the West Brownsville hill on the National pike Thursday afternoon and ran into the bank, Tony Dzalliak, aged 23, was instantly killed. He was hurled over the handlebars of the machine and his head crushed against the bank.

Dzalliak had been negotiating for the purchase of the machine from another foreigner and was on a trial run when the fatal accident occurred. He was running at good speed when the motorcycle left the road.

Dzalliak, who was over six feet in height and weighed about 250 pounds, was employed by the Diamond Coal & Coke mines near Brownsville. He leaves a wife and two children in the old country.

The body was taken to Brownsville for burial.

CORPORATIONS IN FAVOR OF IT

Testimony was taken by the Washington and Fayette county boards of viewers at a hearing in the Fayette City borough building today as to the necessity of a river bridge connecting Fayette City in Fayette county with Allenport in Washington county. The Jacobs estate interposed the greatest objections to the bridge, the attorney for the estate arguing the bridge was not necessary and citing figures

The Pittsburg Steel Company had representatives present to present reasons why the bridge should be built. A. G. Mitchell, superintendent of the Monongahela Division, P. R. R. was in attendance and spoke rather favorably to a bridge. John D. Berryman of Charleroi, president of the Washington County Chamber of Commerce and John B. Schafer, president of the Charleroi Business Men's Association both testified that the bridge was needed.

The hearing is virtually the first movement toward the construction of a bridge. The viewers will determine as nearly as possible the damage that would accrue and balance with them the evidence of necessity. Later other details will be formally take up.

Need of new garnishee laws to discourage credit customers was told by William Smedley, field representative of the state retail merchants' organization at the second convention of the Washington County Chamber of Commerce held at Canonsburg Thursday. Business men and merchants from all parts of the county attended the meeting, which was presided over by John D. Berryman of Charleroi as president.

The address of Mr. Smedley was one of the chief addresses of the afternoon. He told of the need of standard peddling laws; uniform endorsement of the so-called blue laws; standard inspection of sanitary provisions of a certain class of stores such as groceries and butcher shops and abolishment of the mercantile tax or change in the law assessing it so as to give the county in which it is collected its benefit.

Dr. Henry W. Temple, congressman from the 24th district, spoke of legislative troubles. W. H. Walker of Duquesne university, Pittsburg, discoursed on the work of the federal trade commission, recommending a "fundamental cost system for retailers." Rev. ## GEORGE ADE'S POSITION.

George Ade, former active Indiana Progressive, but best known as the announced his determination to support announced his determination to suport Mr. Hughes. In his explanation of his course he says: "When I recall what has happened to this country during the past three years I pity all the good men who are sitting around benumbed by repeated insults and bewildered to learn that their native land is regarded by the rest of the world as a joke, but the large share of my pity is reserved for the poor historian of fifty years from now who will have to explain away our shame so that school children will believe it. Of late Mr. Wilson has been talking preparedness, but his voice doesn't sound natural. Why did he have to wait eighteen months after the European war broke out to discover that we needed a regular army and navy? He did not speak out on the preparedness issue until Democratic politicians had worn a path to the White House telling him what he had better say if he wanted to be reelected. The Democrats said in 1912 that they would reduce the cost of living. All necessities and staples are now higher than ever before. We do not blame the Democrats for high prices. We do blame them for continually making idle promises. For instance, how about their definite promise to enforce economy and trim down appropriations. They have been in the pork barrel up to ther elbows.

RAILROAD SERVICE.

Railroad service for the Tenth coming home was vastly improved over the railroad service for the Tenth going away, though it was somewhat slower. On their way to the border the Tenth rode in day coaches with three men to two seats. Returning they enjoyed the luxury of Pullman cars, with porters and all the accessories to make travel comfortable.

The life of the soldier is never any too easy, but it seemed like rushing them into hardship to send them south in old fashioned day coaches with insufficient seating capacity. Yet there did reignunusual railroad conditions at that time, and perhaps they could not be met.

The only complaint, and it isn't serious, in the home-coming relates to the delays. It is reported that the special trains were sidetracked frequently, even for freights to pass. This was an unusual experience and we suppose regarded necessary because of the freight congestion. There is always a reason.

In times not quite as prosperous as these, with freight congestions unknown and passenger service not taxed to the limit, the same conditions would not have been forced upon the soldiers. There would have been more cars available and the through tracks not tied up with moving freight.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Hunter Wood has brought back from Chicago a story about the auction sale of a busted circus' menagerie. Al Ringling was among the bidders for certain of the animals.

A big tiger was put up, and after a few bids the price went so high that Ringling and one other fellow, a stranger, were the only ones showing anxiety to purchase.

"Twenty-five hundred," said the stranger.

"Three thousand," said Ringling.

"Thirty-five hundred," called the other bidder, and the tiger was knocked down to him.

GINGLES' JINGLES

THE BARBER.

The barbers have it handed to them right and left and strong, they try to do their best no doubt, but somehow get in wrong, the towel they slip us is too hot, or else it is too cold, they never cut our hair just right, for by our friends we're told, the modern haircut handed us, becomes us not a bit, we look like something from the zoo, or something keeping fit to join a circus sideshow, for we'd make a clever freak, and that's the way they pan the humble barber when they speak. Of how he snips the locks or manicures the stubbled lawn, no kind words ever spoken, 'til he's checked for good and gone—until the hands are stilled in death, have pulled their final snips, when warbles never more shall warb those cold and silent lips. 'Tis then bouquets of flowers are sent too late it must be said, for when a barber fails to talk, tack up the sign—he's dead.

"My friend," said Ringling, "you ain't in the show business; what on earth do you want with a tiger."

"Well, you see," said the stranger, "It's this way; my wife died bout six months ago, and I'm getting awfully lonely."—Hopkinsville New Era.

"I started out to buy a car this spring," said the tall man at the end of the bar.

"Yes," said the short man with the fuzzy fedora. "Why not? You can afford it all right."

"I can afford to buy one all right," said the tall man, "but I don't have to. My wife and I can get all the riding and more than we want without putting up the $1,800. I have discovered a scheme whereby I can enjoy all the benefits while the other fellow pays all the expenses. When I let it be noised around that I might buy a car, there were upwards of thirty automobile agents at my office in less than no time and each one wanted to take my wife and myself out riding. I picked out one and he chased me around every day for two weeks. Then I let another one have his turn, then another, then another. We are riding all the time and every agent sticks to us about two weeks. I have got it figured out that there are enough agents in this town to last us until late this month, and then the riding season will be over and I won't really have to buy a car until next year, and even then, perhaps there will be a new crop of agents in our midst. Why BUY a car?"

"Why, indeed? repeated the short man. "Tomorrow morning, bright and early, I shall announce that I am to buy a car. Thanks, old man."—Roy K. Moulton.

of our nation." This statement received the heartiest applause. Congressman Crago maintained that it was necessary for a nation at all times to know its resources. He asked that the Italians yet unnaturalized become naturalized as soon as they could that they might help take care of the United States. His closing remarks were a tribute to the red, white and blue.

H. Fusarini of Uniontown and James Conti were called upon by Chairman Riva to speak particularly to the Italians and other remarks were made by Attorney G. P. Baker of Washington, Daniel Reamer of Monessen, Dr. F. C. Stahlman of Charleroi and Springer Todd of Donora. A number of guests were present from Charleroi, Monessen and other points, among them being in addition to the speakers already named: Sealer O. Evans Mikesell of Washington. Dr. J. Add Sprowls of Donora and Sheriff Frank B. Wickerham of Washington.

Letters of regret were read from ex-governor John K. Tener, Congressman Henry W. Temple, Attorney E.E. Robbins of Greensburg, Judge Lucien W. Doty of Greensburg, Joseph Natali, Italian vice counsel of Pittsburg and C. P. Byrne, mine inspector.

Music was a charming feature of the evening's enjoyment. Fred Lindauer, popular as the Palace theatre pianist, gave a masterly rendition of the "Poet and Peasant" overture and played accompaniments. Louis Brusa of Charleroi and Paolo Paglia of Monessen, both well known singers, contributed Italian songs of a grand opera character. Russell Tuccelli and Columbus Colliffe, in a guitar duet, made a big hit.

While the banquet was in progress at the Italian hall a dance was held that was an additional feature of the Charleroi Columbus day celebration. There announcement was made of the award of a diamond ring to Miss Adelmina M. Riva, she having received the largest number of votes in a contest.

The Charleroi lodge Sons of Italy is a new organization here and ranks as one of the largest in the western end of the state. It has approximately 300 members. In the vicinity various lodges have a total membership of about 1,000. ### COYLE—CHARLEROI

Attractions at the Coyle this week featured some of the best known photo-play stars. Monday a Red Feather production, "The Romance of Billy Goat Hill" was shown. Owen Moore appeared in the leading role of "Rolling Stones" which was shown Tuesday. On Wednesday Viola Dana was featured in "Little Girl of Happiness." Sessue Hayakawa, the noted and talented Japanese actor appeared in the leading role of "The Honorable Friend" which was shown Thursday. Friday the regular installment of the Billie Burke serial was shown. This week's episode was entitled "A Modern Pirate." Saturday's attraction will be "Under Suspicion" and for Monday William Farnum in "Fires of Conscience" has been programmed.

NEW DAVIS—PITTSBURG

In the engagement of Phyllis Neilson-Terry and her London company the New Davis Theatre offers what is surely the most important dramatic event of the forthcoming week, if not of the entire season. Playing experts from Shakespeare's immortal love tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," and rendering a cycle of songs, Miss Terry will be the distinctive attraction in a program of nine acts of refined variety. She has chosen the scene between Lady Capulet and Juliet in the latters bedchamber and the notable incident in Friar Lawrence's cell when Juliet comes to seek the good man's advice in a tangled love affair. Cecil King will play the Friar, while Edith King essays the part of Lady Capulet, Ernest de Blasi, Miss Terry's own musical director, will conduct the orchestra.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Special Treatment Required.

Many women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what such a medicine did for Mrs. Williams :—

She says:—"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."—Mrs NELLIE WILLIAMS, 31 West 3d Street, New Albany, Ind.

MARIETTA COLLEGE TO MEET W. & J. TEAM AT WASHINGTON

Marietta college is back on the Washington & Jefferson schedule for the first time since 1912. Previous to that season it was played frequently, the contest tomorrow being the ninth between the teams, all staged in Washington.

In tight games played to dat W. & J. has been uniformly victorious and in only one game have the Ohians scored. This was in 1901, when Cole, a big tackle and later a Michigan end, kicked a goal from field.

Usually Marietta has played good football in Washington. Metzer is familiar with the team, a veteran one which played last year a hard game with West Virginia of which team Metzer was then coach. He figures on stiff opposition and has prepared his men accordingly.

FRAIL SICKLY CHILD

Father Tells How Boy Was Restored to Health and Strength.

We have always told the people of Charleroi that Vinol is a wonderful body builder for ailing children. Here is more proof of the fact:

J. L. Albury of Miami, Fla., says: "Our little boy was puny and cross from the time he was born, and we hardly knew how to handle him. When he was three years old he was weak and so cross we could hardly live with him and we could not get him to eat anything. A friend asked us to try Vinol. We did so and you should see the change it has made in him. He is now a good-natured, healthy youngster, ready to eat at any time and we cannot praise Vinol enough."

Vinol is especially efficient in building up puny, weak, ailing children, because of the beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates which it contains and as it is without oil or grease children love to take it.
